Our lady readers will be interested to know something concerning the great sales of Santa Claus Soap. The manufacturers, N. K. Fairbank & Co., are justly entitled to rank among the great advertisers of the United States, and are counted among the most liberal patrons of printers' ink in this country.

The Fairbank Company is particularly friendly to newspapers as offering the most legitimate means of advertising and naturally all papers are friendly to Santa Claus Soap.

It cannot be said, as in the case of some advertisers, that Fairbank has made Santa Claus famous, but it does seem correct to say that Santa Claus has made Fairbank famous.

Santa Claus has been of course, for time out of mind, a household word. It was a happy thought when the Fairbank Company seized upon this home-like and familiar name for their very best laundry soap.

Naturally enough the quality of the soap has had much to do with its success, for not even the most extravagant advertising could make a success of a poor article. On the other hand there have been so many poor soaps put upon the markets the past few years, that in the beginning many purchasers hesitated to try another new candidate for favor at the wash-tub.

Fairbank & Co., are live, wide-awake business men, and they knew just how good housekeepers felt on the soap question. So they not only get about to manufacture the very best soap that could be made, but they inaugurated a most earnest and honest system of advertising. No "fakes" or "schemes" have been employed to introduce "Santa Claus" Soap on the market. The brand was brought into notice by straightforward and legitimate methods, and has constantly gained in public favor because of the excellence of the article itself. The manufacturers can congratulate themselves upon such a success. We are informed that the sales of Santa Claus Soap have increased enormously this year, and far above the average rate. No doubt a great share of the increase in this neighborhood is due to the fact that Santa Claus Soap has been well advertised in these columns.

EPPE'S COCOA.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctor bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us, ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in half-pound tins, by grocers, labelled thus: JAMES EPPE & Co. Homeopathic Chemists, London, England.
